DETAILED ACTION

In light of the amendments, the double patenting rejections, and the rejections based upon many of the previously cited references have been overcome, and the rejections withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sato (6,824,956).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention “by another,” or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Sato clearly teaches the inclusion of monomers meeting the instant structural limitations as part of the photosensitive resin in combination with an acid generator meeting the instant claim limitations. The reference further teaches that, “The resin (A) containing the repeating unit of formula (I) can be used in combination with other resin (A'). The resin (A') includes one containing at least one of the above-recited repeating units other than the repeating unit of formula (I). A weight ratio of the resin (A) to the resin (A') is generally 99/1 to 10/90, preferably 95/5 to 20/80, still preferably 90/10 to 30/70. In view of compatibility, it is desirable that at least one of the repeating units making up the resin (A') be the same as a repeating unit (except the unit of formula (I)) of the resin (A). The weight average molecular weight, the molecular weight distribution, and the preference therefor described with respect to the resin (A) apply to the resin (A')." Therefore, the reference clearly contemplates the use of two distinct resins, each comprising a monomer as instantly claimed, therefore the instant claims are anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takeda et al (6,593,056) or Takemura et al (6,511,785) in view of Sato.

Sato has been discussed above.

The Takeda et al and Takemura et al references teach a method of forming a pattern comprising applying a layer of deep-UV photoresist to a substrate, exposing the layer, post – baking the film, developing it, then heating the layer to form a contact hole pattern.

Given the teachings of the reference cited above for its UV resists for use in a pattern formation method, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form a pattern by the method of Takeda et al or Takemura et al employing the material Sato as the UV resist.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
